BERLIN SENTIMENT
DRIFTS TOWARDS
ACCEPTING TERMS
IN UPPER SILESIABELIEVE PARLIAMENTARY COALITION WILL BE FORMED.THREE DAYS MORE
Ultimatum Up Thursday Night,
Cabinet Formation
Difficult.

Berlin.—Sentiment in German political circles was showing a drift at noon Monday in favor of agreeing to the allied reparations plan, but it is now believed a parliamentary coalition which will accept the allied ultimatum will be constructed within the next 24 hours.

Germany has until midnight May 12 to consider the allied terms. By the expiration of this time she is required to give a categorical answer, yes or no, whether she will accept these terms.

Failure to accept will be followed by allied occupation of the industrial region of the Ruhr valley, for which allied military preparations are now in progress.

The terms the Germans are asked to accept include as the main feature, the payment of 125 billion gold marks in reparations to the allies, or approximately $22,750,000,000.

Cabinet Has Resigned.

Meanwhile the German cabinet of Chancellor Fehrenbach with Dr. Walter Simons as foreign minister, has resigned, holding over temporarily pending the formation of a new ministry, and the German political leaders are being kept in suspense. Constant consultation is being had on the problem of constituting a ministry and reaching a decision as to just what attitude Germany shall adopt toward the allies. Dr. Mayer, German ambassador to France, declined to undertake the formation of a new cabinet.

U. S. REPRESENTATION.
ON COUNCIL RESUMED

Paris.—American representation at allied conferences was resumed Monday when Hugh C. Wallace, the American ambassador, took his seat at the session of the council of ambassadors here. The American ambassador's appearance at the meeting was the occasion for which the allies had accepted the part of Jules Cambon, the president of the council, and the other members of that body.

Roland W. Bodden, who formerly sat with the allied reparations commission at its sessions, has received his instructions from the state department to resume his seat with that body.

French to Keep Troops.

'The army contingent of 1919 called to the colors in connection with the preparations for the possible occupation of the Ruhr valley, it was said Monday, is still in the field. Even if the Germans accept the allied ultimatum, the troops will be held in readiness for action in case Bavaria does not disarm before June 30, the time limit fixed by the allies for completion of the disarmament process, it was stated. The contingent of 1919 will, by that time, be sufficiently trained to take the place of the older classes, it is considered, and the 1919 class would then be demobilized.

French occupation troops are within 20 kilometers of Esson, the German armament center. Belgian cavalry is in readiness for an advance from Nivel.

Trial Is Opened

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Elkhorn—Trial of Ed Burns and Alton LeClaire, Milwaukee, on charges in connection with the robbery of two Elkhorn stores last month is in court before Judge Lyon at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. Ralph Jewell and George Weaver, the two other members of the gang, also participated in the robbery, have pleaded guilty to all seven charges and will probably appear as witnesses against the other two men. Weaver, Jewell and Burns are believed to be responsible also for a robbery at Wisconsin Rapids committed before the Elkhorn robbery.

Jeffersonville, Ind.—Belligerent inmates of the Indiana state reformatory were shot by guards after having beaten to death John Grimm, 50-year-old guard.

HUNDREDS FLOCK
TO FISHING SPOTS
ALONG ROCK RIVER

Janesville is getting the fishing habit. Every well known fishing spot along Rock river was thronged with anglers, both men and women, not to mention kids, on Saturday and Sunday. The bridges at Newville, Indian Ford and Four Mile were fairly lined with people on either side. Good catches of pike were noted among the anglers.

There was a wide variety of people at Newville Sunday afternoon from several city women decked with diamond rings and earings to the farmer's wife with her gingham apron. And it was noted that those in the gingham apron had the most pike and pickerel and less trouble baiting their hooks.

Hundreds flocked to the lakes in Rock and Watertown countrys, fishing poles strapped to the side of the cars.

The woods proved a delight to many others for the violets are in full bloom.

Favored by excellent weather people enjoyed Sunday riding, walking, going to the ball game or "taking it easy" at home.

—Samson Is Sued in Federal Court.

Alvin and Ole Amundson, Edgerton contractors, through their attorney, Paul N. Grubb, filed a complaint in the Rock county circuit court Monday against the Edgerton Highway Trailer company, Edgerton, demanding judgment for $2,186.21.

The complaint charges that the plaintiffs entered into a contract to lay 100,000 square feet of concrete flooring for live stock pens at $2.50 per square foot. The total amount to $2,146.20 is still due on the contract. It is further alleged that the contractors are entitled to $1,101 for doing extra grade work.

Suit Over Tobacco.

Paper has been filed in a suit of John K. Hanson as executor of the will of E. F. Hanson against John and Ralph Soulman, tobacco firm of this city. The litigation is over a tobacco contract. H. E. Andrews, Portage attorney, represents the plaintiffs.

The Hanson Tractor company is defendant in litigation held to start in the United States district court in Milwaukee next Monday. The Link belt company, with headquarters in Chicago, is plaintiff in the federal suit. The damage claims are based on the alleged breaking of a patent on all contracts.

On Tuesday Judge George Grimm will hear testimony in the suit of Newman vs. Anderson.

Lathers Seeks Writ.

The injunction proceedings started by W. J. Lathers, contractor and county board member from the town of Turle, were heard by the court Monday afternoon. Lathers as plaintiff seeks an injunction restraining the defendant, Frank Rosenstein, a neighbor, from taking a 30-foot strip of the Lathers' farm. There is a dispute over the farm boundary lines.

On Wednesday afternoon starting at 2 o'clock Judge George Grimm will hear testimony in the suit of Newman vs. Anderson.

There are still pending a number of civil action suits to be heard by the court.

Charged With Moonshining

(THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Peter Plichorke, Edgerton, was arraigned before U. S. Court Commissioner Robert Cunningham here on charges of common Monday to questions regarding the upper Silesian situation and its possible effect on the German answer to the allied demands.

He said that while he might not be prepared to agree with the contention that Germany's answer would necessarily be influenced by the Silesian situation, he was very unfortunate that this incident should have arisen at the moment when Germany was deciding on a new Friday night at the home of Joe Zorob.

10 TEAMS ENTERED IN K. P. CONTEST

Annual Southern Wisconsin Rally on Thursday in Brodhead.

Ten teams, including one from Janesville, are entered in the annual rally and contest of the Southern Wisconsin Yacht League to be held at Brodhead Thursday. The Brodhead team won first place last year.

Several exciting sessions featured the biennial state convention of the Woodmen of the World held in Beloit closing Friday. The entire insurant slate, headed by Carl E. Skow, Racine, was elected to office in open opposition to President W. A. Fraser, Oklahoma, the national president of the organization who threatened to deprive the state of a separate state camp unless the old administration was upheld.

He said he will order the state organization to be dissolved at the national convention in June, as the membership is not yet up to the 1,000 mark that is necessary for state organization. He is a member of the administration slate, headed by C. H. Butterfield, Waukesha, who was elected to office, he would have used his power to have the organization continued.

Fred Cain, head of the local organization, and Chris Johnson of this city attended the sessions.

Other officers elected were head advisor, L. C. Omerburg, La Crosse; first vice, C. C. Womack, Waukesha; head captain, J. C. McGaugh, Mauston; head escort, M. C. Fry, Wautoma; head sentry, C. L. Breitkreis, Madison. No Janesville delegates secured offices. Madison was chosen as the meeting place for the 1923 convention.

That ended the conversation.

BRING THE WOODS TO THE PEOPLE.

Thousands of people went to the woods Sunday.
It was the first real day that had come to the people of Southern Wisconsin when roads, weather, and flowers, were all inviting. Havoc of the last snow is visible everywhere. Low places in the woods, usually carpeted at this time with the purple violet, have been flooded and a few only of the harder ones have survived. The Spring Beauty is late but the White Anemone has weathered the storm, growing with waxy whiteness and shrinking restraint, in the shadow of the oaks. The need of a place for the people who have no automobiles and cannot take the ride ten or more miles to the deep woodlands, to rove and play among the trees and where nature has not been too badly trimmed up and artificially made mathematical, is impressed on any one fortunate enough to get to the woods Sunday.

It is evidence also of the need when one reads over and over in the suggestions made for activities of the Chamber of Commerce, that parks and playgrounds should constitute a large part of the program for support by that organization.
We have many people with yards and flowers of their own and room for hammocks and swings and gardens, who do not feel the need, but all are not so fortunate. To make a city both beautiful and attractive every person in it is to be considered. There are thousands of boys and girls who love flowers and who would revel in the woods and among the things nature has provided if such a place could be reached handily. It is really the duty of the city to provide that place.

NEW YORK, A FOREIGN CITY.

Thirty nations are represented in the 1,089,216
foreign born population of the city of New York.
There are as many Russian born as there are people in Milwaukee, 473,481. There are as many Italians as there are people of all nations in New Orleans, 388,427. Ireland has as many people as there are in all the county of Cork with 202,833.
Germans are not so many, only 102,558 living in New York. If we count the children of these parents born in America within the last ten years the population of the city will be nearly half foreign. As it is, 35 per cent are foreign born.
One great reason for the large percentage is that the immigrant has a tendency to settle at the port of embarkation and the crowded city becomes more crowded and less inviting. Senator Lenoir has stated over and over again that the menace in the immigration flood was in this very visible fact—the crowding into the city and there really would be no menace if the immigration were to the farms and for the development of the lands and untitled places calling for help.

When La Follette speaks the United States senate could meet in a telephone booth.

In the death of John A. Stecher in Albany, N.Y., a few days ago, a figure long prominent in journalism and politics has passed from the scene of earthly things. He followed Charles Elmer Smith, afterward editor of the Philadelphia Press and postmaster general under McKinley, as editor of the Albany Journal established by Thurlow Weed and still owned by a grandson of Weed, William Barnes. Stecher was a friend and confidant of many presidents and public men and for a number of years has fought to establish, the Leslie-Judge company, recently in financial difficulties.

The threatened strike of stockyards employees which would have been so disastrous to all interests has been averted. Fred Harding sent for both parties to the employment problem and at a meeting of Secretaries Davis and Hoover with them the difficulties were washed out and the men are at work. That is constructive work for the administration.

Janesville has begun a paving program for the year that will mean much to the city. Good streets are the highest recommendation for a city and the Gazette has as a part of its platform the paving of all the streets eventually. That will make a better place in which to live and this is the thing we are looking for.

you can have murder, riot, and sudden death and a menace to the peace of a whole county.

Amid scenes of confusion and creature complaints, it is to be noted that the price of automobiles has dropped. Some of the people are more interested in other prices however.

While the friends of Harold Giese will rejoice over his promotion they will deeply regret his leaving the state.

A BILL TO KILL BILLS.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—A law to prevent legislation, to reduce somewhat the ever-growing stack of statutes under which we are being buried, has been introduced by Representative Tinkham of Massachusetts.

Mr. Tinkham's bill aims to abolish the rider, a rider in legislative parlance, is a bit of legislation tacked onto an appropriation bill, although it has no real relation to it. By this means many laws are passed which in all probability would never be passed otherwise. It enables a few men on one committee to put through a minor law without debate, and to stifle protest by the plan that the appropriation bill must be passed.

The appropriation bills provide funds to keep the Government functioning. If the Army or Navy appropriation bill did not pass in time to authorize expenditure of money when a fiscal year began, all sorts of trouble would result. The appropriation bill, therefore, is sure of enactment. It is the express train that runs on a track to a definite destination.

But a bill which provides that sailors should wear a different kind of hat is purely a legislative measure and might have a hard time to obtain a hearing. So the Congressman with a minor bill of this sort goes to the Rules Committee. There is a rule against riders on an appropriation express, but the Rules Committee made the rule and can overrule it when convenient. The Congressman explains the strong points of his bill to this committee, and very often it agrees to allow the rider to tag on the nearest appropriation measure.

JUST FOLKS

BY EDGAR A. GUEST

FATHER SONG.

It's oh, my little ladies, as you're romping at your play.
There's an old heart running with you every minute of the day.
And, though you cannot see me when you're wrapped up in a game.
But it's I that am beside you in your striving just the same.

It is oh, my little laddie, there is much you cannot know.
But it's I that follow proudly everywhere you
change to go.
There's a hand upon your shoulder whereso-ever you may be.
That would help you out of danger, and that hand belongs to me.

It is oh, my little laddie, thought you cannot hear me call,
I am always there to help you every time you
change to go;
I am with you in the school room and I'm with you on the street.
And though you may not know it, I am dogging
at your feet.

It's oh, my little laddie, all my life belongs to you.
All the dreams that I have cherished through the years depend on you;
And though now you cannot know it, you shall some day come to see How this old heart loved to hover round a boy that used to be.

The will of the late Mr. Osterle, the seventy-a way—to break it.

According to information received from the

It would be cut between the corner and the up their odds accordingly. No admission will be charged for the race. Any other planets or

There is enough gold in the teeth of the population of the United States to pay the German

Who's Who Today.

BISHOP MICHAEL FAULHABER.

Germany has a new cardinal in the person of the Most Rev. Michael Faulhaber, archbishop of Munich, who is the recent consistorial in Rome.

It is one of the best known and most beloved of the prelates within the German realm. His station has for years been in Bavaria, where he has been the leading figure in the affairs of the church, but his influence over a field far beyond his native state is gratifying to all his countrymen.

As archbishop, he was charged for years with the most delicate missions for the church. It was through him that the authorities in Rome communicated with the war, if the Jones' appeals for peace could have been effective in inducing Germany to make them, would have been the archbishop of Munich. Probably his work in that direction was not as futile as it seemed at the time, for it was undertaken amid complications that involved all of the belligerent nations, and his influence could not reach beyond the boundaries of his own land.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

In Follette's Consistency?

In demanding a Senate vote of recognition for
"the Irish Republic," Senator La Follette said:
"I stand for this country, doing no more for Ireland than we have done for other small nations of the world." Yet when the United States wanted to enter a war based on protection of the rights of Belgium and other small nations, Senator La Follette was one of the "wilful negligents" who voted "NO."

The first consistency in these two positions is that of hatred for England, if not love for Germany. The second consistency above that of another nation's welfare above that of the United States.—Chicago Evening Post.

THIRTY-ONE YEARS AGO

May 9, 1890.—Virgil Pope, the white man to stake a claim in this part of Rock county lived at his home in Janesville township this morning. He was born in Connecticut and when only a young boy walked to New York to this country, where he has made his home since.—The Methodist Protestant is now in session and strongly condemning the action taken by the legislature recently in prohibiting the reading of the Bible in the schools.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

May 9, 1901.—Contractor John Martin of Oshkosh who is under contract to pave some of the Janesville streets wrote here recently and said he will not return to finish up the work this spring and that the city can hire somebody else to do it again.

TEN YEARS AGO

May 9, 1911.—The Colmar circus arrived in this city yesterday but as it was not performing they will give two performances here today. There were large crowds at the grounds all day yesterday. Chris Hillier commited suicide yesterday. He had been despontized over ill health. He lived in La Prairie.

THE GIRL WHO HAD NO CHANCE'

By Marion Rubincam

CHAPTER XXVIII.

LITTLE DETAILS.

Christmas eve was Saturday that year, and Saturday was the day when Ruth's various "beholders" as she called them, paid their bills. By this time the girl had almost a house full. A foreman from one of the factories had taken a room. The man who had the store opening a board at Main street had come out with his wife and rented the big parlor and the little study back of it, which Ruth fitted up as a bedroom.

Another she took in enough to more than make ends meet. She was setting aside a little sum each week in the bank, to pay the fare of her father and mother when they came back. She had given each of them a $10 bill as a present, and to both she knew that they would need shirts and collars for her father and material for a dress her mother should have.

"And when they come back," she told Mrs. Belding, "the teachers will be gone, so we'll live on the third floor. An in the fall I'll not rent the bedrooms on this floor, so they can have a nice room to themselves.

But the teachers were but little trouble; but the foreman and the manager and his wife took their breakfasts with Ruth. That meant that Ruth had to be up very early, and cook and serve breakfast for this group. Then there was the quite heavy housework, for so many people, and the evening dinner for teacher and manager.

The other people dined at a nearby boarding house then. And by night, Ruth was usually too tired to want to go out. She had gotten into the habit of going to bed at 8 o'clock and lying there reading for an hour or so before she dropped asleep.

But Saturdays were her days of reward, for the nice new girls came then. As she began to see how far she had come, she began to plan on going to the city next year for her business course.

"I'll have a chance yet," she told Mrs. Belding.

She had not quite gotten over the vague feeling of being hurt—not at Breakfast. Apricots. Corned Beef Hash Browned. Teas. Butter. Coffees. Luncheon. Codfish Balls. Relish. Tea or Cocoa. Pork Chops Baked with Escalloped Potatoes. Cabbage or Banana Salad. Teach Shortcake. Tea or Coffee.

RECIPES FOR A DAY

Codfish Balls—Faro and quarter two of two quarts potatoes. Cut in kettle. Pick up about half a box of codfish and put on top of potatoes, cover with boiling water and cook till potatoes are done about 20 minutes. Drain and wash. Add a little salt and pepper to taste. Using a large spoon and knife form into egg shaped balls. Fry in deep fat or brown like potato cakes.

Muffins (One dozen large)—Two and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, sifted together, one egg beaten. Add one-third cup of milk, one-half cup water, two tablespoons melted butter. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in hot oven.

Salad Dressing—Beat two eggs in a bowl, add one-half cup cream (sweet or sour), one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon mustard, five tablespoons vinegar. Cook over steam, stirring often. Add two tablespoons melted butter or oil. When cool thin as needed with cream.

NOVEL USES FOR FRUIT

Fruit Breads—The currants are now much cheaper and can be restored with profit to cake puddings and even breads. Of course, there is a fine acid fruit flavor to bread, than do raisins, but for a change this may be acceptable, and more sugar may be added if desired, or up to half a cup for three cups of flour. Or parts of the fruit used may be some of the extra sweet products like candied citron.

A fruit bread made entirely of white flour may be incomparably good, but for some reason or other, probably to make the dark breads more enticing, fruits have been more commonly used in the dark breads. An old Indian cornbread with candied fruits, like candied citron and apple, becomes a real confection.

TISSUE ON COOKING

Meat cup up for steaming gives a richer gravy than when cooked in one piece. It is a good plan to leave one solid piece of meat to slice cold if the supply is sufficient for two meals.

The cold meat should be left in the stock until it is ready to serve, so as to retain the moisture and any vegetables that are in the stock must be removed, or the flavor will be too strong.

Emergency biscuits may be made by slightly increasing the amount of liquid and dropping the dough from a spoon on to a greased baking sheet or into small muffin pans.

In this way time is saved that is otherwise used for rolling and cutting, and the biscuits are more tender.

One often puts too much salt in food while cooking it. To remove the salt place a wet cloth over the top of the vessel in which the food is cooking and the steam will draw the salt into the wet cloth.

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

DEAR TESSIE:

Don't you think it's about time the baby had his first swimming lesson? The reason I am such a helpless nuisance in the water is because nobody got hold of me when I was young and thoughtless and taught me how to swim, and now that I'm old enough to realize how foolish I look trying to act at home in a fish's element, it's too late to do anything with me. The weight of my embarrassment carries me down like a stone with a rock tied to my neck.

So it's up to us to make the baby efficient (joke) before he's old enough to know that he's taking liberties with the laws of nature. You can get in the good work while you're giving him his bath every day. The first thing to give him is confidence in the water. That's what I lack. I've got about as much confidence in the water as Ireland has in England, and the way to give him confidence is to duck his head under for a few seconds each day. Of course you've got to use the old bean and not hold him under too long. If you notice that he hasn't any more sense than to swallow the water while he's under, it would be a wise precaution to make a point of ducking him before the water gets soapy. A little salt in the water every other day wouldn't be a bad idea, though—because then when he takes his first plunge in the ocean he will feel at home immediately. Any scientist will tell you the importance of impressions received in infancy.

After he gets a little confidence in that way, you can hold him on top of the water and let him go through the general motions of swimming, ducking him every once in a while to keep up his confidence.

Well, be good,

JOE.

If a winsome miss should give you a real naughty wink the next time you walk along the street think twice before you become perturbed. Perhaps it is not meant to wink.

And Ruth treasured each letter when she was tired or depressed she wrote to the little box and brought out the last letter, simply to look at that one little sentence. Sometimes Tim was moved to a real love letter, but Ruth was usually too tired to want to go out. She had gotten into the habit of going to bed at 8 o'clock and lying there reading for an hour or so before she dropped asleep.

But Saturdays were her days of reward, for the nice new girls came then.

As she began to see how far she had come, she began to plan on going to the city next year for her business course.

"I'll have a chance yet," she told Mrs. Belding.

She had not quite gotten over the vague feeling of being hurt—not at all, but she had to get over it.

But Ruth had to get over it.

It didn't like her here. You were around. Who would notice Myra when you were around? But you're here and out of sight, and he's in the city, and it's new to him, and he's dazed by everything.

And there's Myra in her borrowed evening gowns, and her cousin from apartment making an impression, on him. Myra, Ruth knew, I've been young, too, and ambitious, and I've been in cities and I know what they do. Lights, and people, and fine clothes and money spent like it was water!" Mrs. Belding drew a lurid picture of city life.

But he wanted to marry me!"

"Well, you get to the city then, and get him away from that girl! Don't you see it's because they're near each other and both a bit homesick? It's as other."

"But Myra wouldn't take him away from me, she knows I love him."

"She wouldn't, wouldn't she? Give her a chance. She wouldn't mean to."

Was even this to be taken away from her, Ruth wondered? No chance to be allowed to work and study—no chance to hold the love she had gained.

Walsh Stages Comeback, but Loses-Fight Hearing Today

Copyright 1920 by Geo. McManus.

Tractors Win Sunday, 9-8, by Rally in Ninth; Drop Fluky Opener, 4-2

Ninth inning rallies decided the two games the Jamesville Tractors divided with the Chicago Progressives over the weekend, the home crew winning Sunday 9 to 8, and dropping the Saturday scramble 4 to 2.

"Slim" Walsh equipped with a brand new glove pitched Saturday and if the elongated hurler had a prayer along with the new glove he would have coped. But he was touched for a couple scratch swats in the ninth which netted the fatal two runs.

The game Sunday was a battle of southpaw slants. Smithson with his cross-fire was pitted against a left hander named Hager. He had trouble locating the plate and at times was severely mauled by the Jamesville crew. He retired in the eighth and Heath, who pitched Saturday, finished the game.

Chicago Team Score
One thing must be said about the youthful Chicago team—they never gave up. Tractors won on the road to victory Saturday until the invaders on an uphill fight and aided by Dame Fortune, tied the score and in the finale they beat the Jamesville club to the wire. They came near doing the same thing Sunday, but eight runs behind them Smithson should have had a way going for the Chicagoans. In the sixth had only beaten him for two runs. The Progressives kept plugging along and they tied the count eight all in the ninth.

They were aided liberally by some bad ball playing by the home club. There were five glaring aerial errors which were good for runs and a couple of misplays that cannot be listed as bunts. On the other hand at times the players of Jamesville was brilliant. The lightning double killing testify to this fact together with the stellar stops by Schwind and Holland.

Most of the mistakes by Perring et al were hurried throws that went a mile from their mark.

Holland Bunting Star.

Harry Holland was the hitting star of the series for on Sunday he connected three times and it was his well placed single that sent the win-slurping home in the last half of the ninth. Perring came through Sunday with one timely clout. The other four times he got on with a free ticket by walking three times and hit once.

Smithson started with a ton of stuff and for the two opening games, he went through the Chicago slate like the First division went up Mont Stet. He caused the first three up to stick the batter for his southpaw slants had them swinging. He fanned ten during the game, but he wobbled quite a few spalls.

Things began to happen in the second inning when "Bundie" Holland placed a drive through the right side. Shook sacrificed with Holland leading it for second. Shook caught hold of a fast one which ended with Holland at third and the Jamesville pitcher, first. Breckinridge walked, hitting the wicks. Crook then answered the plea of the fans, hitting a single which scored Holland and Smithson. The two on bases advanced on Brackett's attempt. With the infield clean Brackett laid one out on which Breckinridge and Crook smacked home. The play at Crook was close and the ball got past when Bryant made a play at first.

In the third Smithson was good for two singles at the start, Bryant, and Hager connecting hits. They advanced on a passed ball. Shook was given a life when Hager was caught on a forced play. Wagner connected and scored the two runs. Shook brought the runs in with a single near second.

Perring Scores Three.

The sixth was a woody inning. Both clubs got two. Muggles snuffed Schmitz was given life on a bunt and a wild throw allowed both to score. A double play was made by Holland starting three more runs. With a runner second, Shook hit a long fly. Holland raced back, lunged at the ball, caught it and threw to Schwind for the double for the runner was stationed on third thinking the fly a certain hit.

In the Jamesville half Smithy staged to be followed by Breckinridge who put a clean hit good for first. Greek sacrificed with a base. Strohman went out but "Bundie" Perring sent home the two runs with a wicked drive through the infield.

By adding one run in both the seventh and eighth and two in the ninth, the Chicago club tied the score after it looked as if the base ballers of their team. A triple by Weyrich, the only one back hit of the game, started the mass. Shanahan singled scoring the run. One more was needed to tie. Muggles worked Smithson for a walk which put Shanahan on second. Shook took a chance to catch him off the pack and lined a throw down to the bag. Neither Schwind nor the Indians could get on a ball because Schwind "towards Perring on a relay from the outfield."

It began to look like the game had been kleeked away when Perring came to bat. He got his third walk. Schwind forced him out at second and snaked to third on an overthrow. Holland waved the old bludgeon in front of a fast curve and singled, sending Schwind home.

The most excitement of the game was when Schwind dove for a line drive and came up with the ball after an acrobatic tumble in the fifth inning. Walsh Draws Applause.

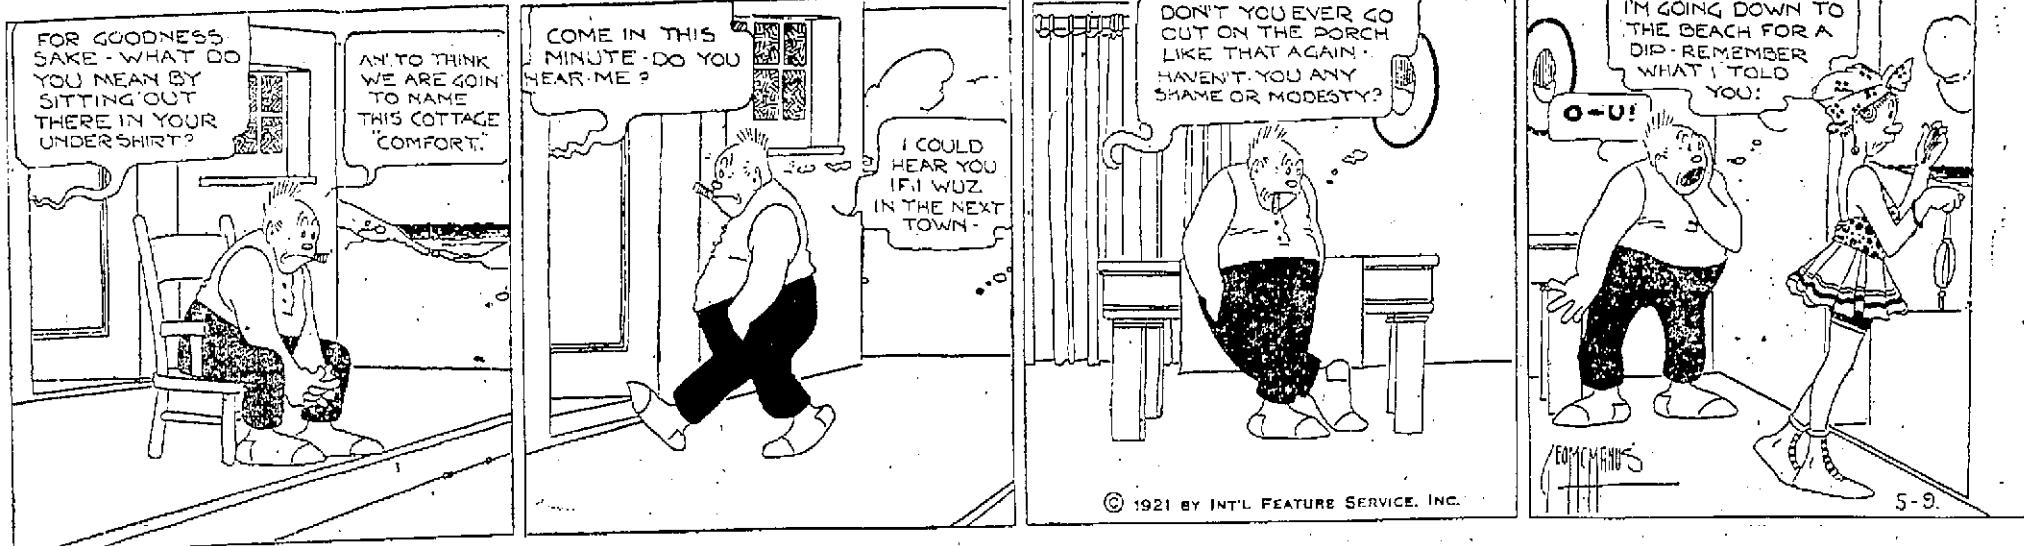

On Saturday, Walsh displayed a great comeback into the game after his unfortunate showing last year and had it not been for a complete set of bad luck, the second, the choices we he would have won his first appearance. Not only did he work along in real style on the slab, forcing seven to whiff the atmosphere, but he showed keen headwork in the pinches.

In the third, particularly he was there. With the sack full and only one down, for first base, Muggles, Giv, Crook and then snuck out Shanahan while the crowd in the stands and bleachers yelled their bats off in appreciation. Again in the ninth he brought down the cheers of the mob when with three on and one down, he grabbed a bounder off Stroh's bat, hesitated a moment, and tossed to Shook to nab Lehman at the plate. How "Slim" Lost Out.

For some time, he was alone, he should have walked off with the laurels but a couple of scratch hits were his entire undoing. With the score a tie at 2-2 from the second inning on, the Chicago youngsters played on their toes in the final frame. After "Slim" had put over the second out, Wagner lifted a drive to left field that was about to set Bryant on fire. Brackett got the kill and tossed to Perring to catch Shook on third for the last killing.

The second inning, when the Progressives got their first two count

Smithson started with a ton of stuff and for the two opening games, he went through the Chicago slate like the First division went up Mont Stet. He caused the first three up to stick the batter for his southpaw slants had them swinging. He fanned ten during the game, but he wobbled quite a few spalls.

Things began to happen in the second inning when "Bundie" Holland placed a drive through the right side. Shook sacrificed with Holland leading it for second. Shook caught hold of a fast one which ended with Holland at third and the Jamesville pitcher, first. Breckinridge walked, hitting the wicks. Crook then answered the plea of the fans, hitting a single which scored Holland and Smithson. The two on bases advanced on Brackett's attempt. With the infield clean Brackett laid one out on which Breckinridge and Crook smacked home. The play at Crook was close and the ball got past when Bryant made a play at first.

In the third Smithson was good for two singles at the start, Bryant, and Hager connecting hits. They advanced on a passed ball. Shook was given a life when Hager was caught on a forced play. Wagner connected and scored the two runs. Shook brought the runs in with a single near second.

Perring Scores Three.

The sixth was a woody inning. Both clubs got two. Muggles snuffed Schmitz was given life on a bunt and a wild throw allowed both to score. A double play was made by Holland starting three more runs. With a runner second, Shook hit a long fly. Holland raced back, lunged at the ball, caught it and threw to Schwind for the double for the runner was stationed on third thinking the fly a certain hit.

In the Jamesville half Smithy staged to be followed by Breckinridge who put a clean hit good for first. Greek sacrificed with a base. Strohman went out but "Bundie" Perring sent home the two runs with a wicked drive through the infield.

By adding one run in both the seventh and eighth and two in the ninth, the Chicago club tied the score after it looked as if the base ballers of their team. A triple by Weyrich, the only one back hit of the game, started the mass. Shanahan singled scoring the run. One more was needed to tie. Muggles worked Smithson for a walk which put Shanahan on second. Shook took a chance to catch him off the pack and lined a throw down to the bag. Neither Schwind nor the Indians could get on a ball because Schwind "towards Perring on a relay from the outfield."

It began to look like the game had been kleeked away when Perring came to bat. He got his third walk. Schwind forced him out at second and snaked to third on an overthrow. Holland waved the old bludgeon in front of a fast curve and singled, sending Schwind home.

The most excitement of the game was when Schwind dove for a line drive and came up with the ball after an acrobatic tumble in the fifth inning. Walsh Draws Applause.

On Saturday, Walsh displayed a great comeback into the game after his unfortunate showing last year and had it not been for a complete set of bad luck, the second, the choices we he would have won his first appearance. Not only did he work along in real style on the slab, forcing seven to whiff the atmosphere, but he showed keen headwork in the pinches.

In the third, particularly he was there. With the sack full and only one down, for first base, Muggles, Giv, Crook and then snuck out Shanahan while the crowd in the stands and bleachers yelled their bats off in appreciation. Again in the ninth he brought down the cheers of the mob when with three on and one down, he grabbed a bounder off Stroh's bat, hesitated a moment, and tossed to Shook to nab Lehman at the plate. How "Slim" Lost Out.

For some time, he was alone, he should have walked off with the laurels but a couple of scratch hits were his entire undoing. With the score a tie at 2-2 from the second inning on, the Chicago youngsters played on their toes in the final frame. After "Slim" had put over the second out, Wagner lifted a drive to left field that was about to set Bryant on fire. Brackett got the kill and tossed to Perring to catch Shook on third for the last killing.
